THE HARDWICKE FAMILY

by
Robert E. Hardwicke 1/

"Chart of Hardwicke Family," prepared by Clifford G. Hardwicke and Robert E. Hardwicke (Nos. 841-A and 842-A on such chart), undertakes, from data available January 1, 1939, to show in chart form all known members of the family who are descendants of John Hardwicke, No. 400-A on the chart, who was born about 1715. The chart also gives data, partly conjectural, as to some of his ancestors. The chart is a revision of one made in 1934, and is, of course, more accurate and complete than the 1934 chart.

A second chart has been prepared by Robert E. Hardwicke showing most of the known ancestors of Nancy Anne Johnson, wife of Joseph Venable Hardwicke, Nos. 508-B and 509-A, respectively, on the chart of the Hardwicke family.

The two charts mentioned are to be considered in connection with this document or booklet, which undertakes, with respect to many members of the Hardwicke family, to give data in addition to that shown on the charts. The number appearing before each name herein corresponds to the number assigned to such person on the "Chart of Hardwicke Family." If, therefore, information is desired about a particular person, cross-reference to the chart or booklet is thus made easier.

Any one who has undertaken to obtain accurate dates and other information appropriate for a family record, unpretentious though it may be, will understand the disappointments which are inevitable, regardless of great persistence and considerable expense. Furthermore, it is no small task to assort and reconcile available data or to avoid those errors which could be avoided if great care were used in proofreading. Let it be clearly understood that the author of this booklet is no professional genealogist, nor has he had unlimited time or funds to indulge in research or to obtain much professional aid. After all, the data disclosed by the charts and booklet have, in a sense, "just growed" as a result of sporadic activities over a period of years. Let it be said, however, that Alice Hardwicke Frischkorn (No. 819-B), Rebecca Walford Snead (817-B), Caroline Hardwicke Nelson (No. 858-B), and Louise Hardwicke Collier (820-B) have been of great assistance. Indeed, their aid and encouragement were indispensable. May the information here given be such as to spur others to carry on. In spite of the fact that many of the county records in Virginia and neighboring states, relating to the period prior to the Civil War, have been destroyed, a careful researchor may yet find much of real value and interest, filling in the gaps which are apparent on the record here begun.

ORIGIN OF NAME AND FAMILY

Beyond doubt, the Hardwick(e) family or families, which were found at an early period in Virginia and Maryland, originated in England, probably in Derbyshire. The name has been spelled various ways in its evolution to the current spelling, such as, among others, Herdwycke, Herdwicke, Hardwyk, Hardewick, Hardwick, and Hardwicke. According to some researchers, the early members of the Hardwick(e) family in Maryland, and in Westmoreland County, Virginia, were very erratic in spelling, for the name frequently appears as Hardige, Hardwich, Hardich, and the like, before Hardwick became the usual form. See Zella Armstrong, Vol. 2, "Notable Southern Families," and Arthur L. Keith, "The Hardwick Family," 3 William and Mary's College Quarterly, Second Series, No. 2, issue of April 1923, page 97.

Insufficient information is available to be certain that the Hardwicke family, which is the subject of this booklet, is connected with the Hardwick family which came to Westmoreland County, Virginia, prior to 1700, and which is discussed in the book by Miss Armstrong, and in the article by Mr. Keith. Whether related or not, they were often found in the same counties and areas. The reasonable assumption is that Westmoreland and Henrico County Hardwickes were of the same family.

The most remote ancestor of the Hardwicke family, subject of this booklet, who can be positively identified is John Hardwicke Sr., of Virginia, No. 302-A, born about 1690. Greater information is available with respect to his son, John Hardwicke Jr., No. 400-A, born about 1715. The latter lived most of his life in Virginia, in or near Campbell and Bedford Counties. According to a memorandum made by his grandson, he, John Jr., moved to Kentucky about 1790 where he died about 1812. While we know that his father was also named John, No. 302-A on the chart, there is some doubt as to the name of the wife of John Hardwicke Sr. There is also doubt whether the chart accurately lists his brothers. There is good reason to believe that the father of John Hardwicke Sr. was Robert Hardwicke of Henrico County, Virginia, and that he or his father was the emigrant ancestor from England. Unfortunately, fire has destroyed many of the old records of Henrico County, leaving much to conjecture concerning the early history of the family.

Some of the early members of the family in Virginia spelled the name with the final "e." The use of the final "e" is quite consistent, beginning with the children of John Hardwicke Jr., or at least with one child, Joseph Venable Hardwicke, whose descendants are shown with considerable accuracy on the chart of the Hardwicke family.

Since we do not know the name of the emigrant ancestor, it is impossible to designate the English branch from which we stem. The name Hardwick or Hardwicke in England is, however, well known. For instance, a manuscript of The Media Research Bureau refers to Sir Joscelyn de Hardwicke, Anglo-Saxon Nobleman of Derbyshire who lost his estates when William the Conqueror over ran England. The name Hardwicke in England is also well known because Philip Yorke was Lord Chancellor of England about the middle of the eighteenth century. He was first a Baron, then an Earl. Having purchased "the estate of Hardwicke of Gloucestershire," he took the title of "Lord Hardwicke," then, when he became an Earl, was Earl of Hardwicke. See 12 Encyclopaedia Britannica 11th Ed. page 944, also Vol. 1 of Yorke's "Life of Lord Chancellor Hardwicke," p. 118. It is to be remembered that the real name of Lord Chancellor Hardwicke was Philip Yorke. The name "Hardwicke" was simply a part of his title, and was used because he purchased a beautiful estate which was called Hardwicke or was owned at one time by the Hardwicke family. Obviously, Lord Hardwicke is not a member of the Hardwicke family.

It is also of interest to note that a rather famous character in England was "Bess of Hardwick(e)," born 1518. She became Countess of Shrewsbury. According to 24 Encyclopaedia Britannica, 11th Ed., p. 1017, "Bess of Hardwick" was "the daughter and co-heiress of John Hardwicke of Hardwicke in Derbyshire." Furthermore, "after the death of the Earl of Shrewsbury, she lived mostly in Hardwicke where she built a noble mansion, which still stands." Beyond doubt, there was a wealthy man by the name of John Hardwicke living about 1600 who had an estate in Derbyshire called "Hardwicke." Apparently there was also a large Hardwicke estate in Gloucestershire, which may or may not have been part of the Derbyshire estate. It is reasonably clear that the estate which Philip Yorke purchased about 1725, and which was the origin of his title, was at one time the estate of John Hardwicke, father of Elizabeth or Bess who became Countess of Shrewsbury. It is also observed that the estate of Sir Joscelyn de Hardwicke, conquered by William the Conqueror, was in Derbyshire.

A more modern person in England, identified with the name Hardwicke, is Sir Cedric Hardwicke, the actor. No information is available to show whether he is connected with the family.

Some day the name of the Hardwicke who was the emigrant ancestor may be known. It then will likely be possible to obtain accurate information concerning the family in England. It is reasonably safe to assume that the emigrant ancestor came to Virginia or Maryland prior to 1700. As will be seen later, there is a tradition that the emigrant ancestor came to Virginia about 1642. Hardwick(e)s lived in Virginia at that time, so the tradition probably has a factual basis.

The existing records in Henrico County, Virginia, show a deed from Nicholas Cox to Robert Hardwick dated December 2, 1727, covering 300 acres north of the James River. See Deed and Will Book for 1725-1737, page 154. The Order Book, 1737-1744, at page 133, shows that Robert Hardwick acknowlodged a deed to George Hardwick in 1739. The will of Robert Hardwick was probated in 1740. The Vestry Book of Saint John's Church for 1736, 1739, 1740, and 1741 has entries with respect to Robert and George Hardwick. Apparently, Robert was the father of George, but this is not certain, although the records do show that Robert had a lame son. Further search in the Richmond area may reveal interesting data.

INDIVIDUAL MEMBERS OF THE FAMILY

As an aid in determining relationships, the "Chart of Hardwicke Family" starts with the family in England, assigned the number 100, and includes the emigrant ancestor, whoever he was. Each member of the next generation is given a number between 200 and 300, the third generation between 300 and 400, and so on. It follows that a person with the number 820 would be of the eighth generation starting from the emigrant ancestor.

Although the name was spelled without the final "e" in most instances in the records prior to 1775, the final "e" will be used herein unless there is some point in being more accurate.

100. _____ Hardwicke. This represents the family in England and the emigrant ancestor. Until the name of the emigrant ancestor is known, we cannot trace the family in England.

200. Robert Hardwicke. As shown above, the records of Henrico County which are still in existence show that a Robert Hardwick lived there as early as 1727, and that he had a lame son. Robert's will was probated in 1740, but the books showing the will, the beneficiary, etc. have been destroyed. It is a mere assumption to say that George Hardwick, mentioned also in the early records, was his son. Fairly reasonable deductions can be made as justification for listing on the chart four sons of Robert Hardwicke of Henrico County, towit: George, Robin, John, and Christopher. Further explanation will be given in connection with John, 302-A. It may be observed that the records of Westmoreland County, Virginia, show that a George Hardick(e), a planter, by a will dated 1704, inventory returned March 25, 1713, devised property to his son, Robert, and his son, George, when the latter reached the age of 18. See Torrence Index of Wills. It may be, therefore, that the author of this will was the father of the Robert Hardwicke who is the subject matter of this paragraph.

300. George Hardwicke. The chart shows that he is a son of Robert Hardwicke of Henrico County. See 200 above. It is not at all certain that he is a brother of Robin, John, and Christopher as shown on the chart.

301. Robin Hardwicke. The names Robin and Robert are frequently used interchangeably. See discussion of 302-A for further information about Robin or Robert.

302-A. John Hardwicke Sr. Insufficient facts exist to be certain that John Hardwicke, here called Senior, was the son of Robert Hardwicke, No. 200 above, or was the brother of George Hardwicke, No. 300 above. It is fairly clear that John Sr. had two brothers, Robin and Christopher.

Bedford County Records show that John and Elizabeth Hardwick(e), September 21, 1789, gave consent to the marriage of Betsie Hardwick(e) to Philip Bush. In Amherst County in Deed Book "D," p. 471, is a deed from John Hardwick and wife, Elizabeth, to Henry McDonald, dated December 1, 1777. In books "C," "D," "E," and "G," of Amherst County, are deeds in which John Hardwick is grantor or grantee, and in some of them he is said to be of Amherst County, and in others, of Bedford County. Most likely the same man was involved.

In Virginia Land Book 33, page 636, appears a grant of land to John Hardwick of 395 acres in the County of Lunenburg on Crab Orchard Creek. In the same book, page 707, is a grant of 300 acres in Abermarle County to Robert Hardwick. In the same book, Vol. 19, page 911, is a grant of 187 acres in Brunswick County to Christopher Hardwick.

Rebecca Hardwicke Snead, of Fork Union, Virginia, No. 817-B, has in her possession an original memorandum made in 1839 by Joseph Venable Hardwicke, No. 508-A on the chart. Such memorandum lists the names of the brothers and sisters of Joseph Venable Hardwicke, and also the names of his children. These data have been used in preparing the chart. Following the memorandum listing members of the family, appears a further memorandum in two parts, each signed by John Venable Hardwicke, No. 603-A, son of Joseph Venable Hardwicke. The document with its three parts is as follows:

"John Hardwicke	born	Feb. 16, 1765
George Hardwicke	born	Aug. 9, 1766
Salley Hardwicke	born	Feb. 22, 1771

"Elizabeth Hardwicke born Feb. 10, 1773
Mitchell P. Hardwicke born Feb. 12, 1775
Elinda Hardwicke born June 18, 1777
Samuel Hardwicke born June 11, 1779
Christ Hardwicke born June 20, 1781
J. V. Hardwicke born Sept. 29, 1783
Ann Hardwicke born Oct. 2, 1785
Edmond Hardwicke born June 19, 1788

"J. V. Hardwicke and Ann Johnson married July 20, 1809.

"John V. Hardwicke,
their son, born June 2, 1810
Mary E. Hardwicke born March 16, 1812
William S. Hardwicke born March 19, 1822
George W. Hardwicke born Oct. 14, 1828
Joseph L. Hardwicke born Dec. 7, 1831

"Ann Johnson, mother of the above five children, born March 25, 1790.

"The within begins with my Father's oldest brother, John, and ends with his brothers and sisters. He also gives the names of my sister and brothers as well as my mother's maiden name. My father, Joseph V. Hardwicke, wrote and gave the within memorandum in June Eighteen Hundred and Thirty Nine, 1839, in the year of I. H. S.

Jno. V. Hardwicke."

"His father, my grandfather, was named John, who dicd at the age of 98 in Kentucky near Mt. Sterling whither he emigrated about 1788.9 from Bedford County, Va. My great grandfather settled on Tuckaho Creek, Henrico County, Va., about the year 1642 where he died and was buried. He had two brothers, Robin and Christopher. One settled on the Potomac, the other near the line of North Carolina.

"The statements here made were given me by my father and his sister, Sally Sale of Bedford Co., Virginia.

Jno. V. Hardwicke."

According to the statements by John Venable Hardwicke made, perhaps, in about 1850, his great grandfather, about 1642, settled on Tuckaho Creek in Henrico County, Va., where he died and was buried, and such person had two brothers, Robin and Christopher. It is reasonably certain that the date 1642 is incorrect if it relates to the great grandfather of John Venable Hardwicke. The correct date may be 1742, which would be more consistent with other known data. On the other hand, it may be that a more remote ancestor did settle in what is now Henrico County about 1642. The statement about three Hardwicke brothers, John, Robin, and Christopher, is probably correct, for we find land grants to them respectively in 1759, 1760, and 1740, as heretofore mentioned.

Elizabeth Jackson (Hardwicke), No. 800-B, told the author of this booklet that she lived as a girl at a place called "Woodlawn" in Goochland County, about 20 miles from Richmond, and that on the place was an old Hardwicke homestead containing a Hardwicke cemetery, but that the inscriptions on the stones had become so worn by 1900 that they could not be read. Goochland County was originally a part of Henrico County, and is in or near the Tuckaho Creek area.

There is an abundance of evidence to prove that several members of the Hardwicke family at a very early date lived in Henrico and Goochland Counties near Richmond. Later they, and also Westmoreland County Hardwicks moved westward up the James, being found in considerable numbers in Bedford, Campbell, Louisa, Albermarle, Lunenburg, Nelson, Buckingham, and other counties. The Deed and Marriage records of these counties contain many references to the Hardwick(e)s, but it is impossible from information now available to work out the relationships. The names John and Robert Hardwick(e) appear very frequently, sometimes as Junior, sometimes as Senior, and sometimes without any such designation, thereby adding to the confusion. Records in Bedford and Amherst Counties between 1763 and 1790 show many deeds, wills, marriage records, etc., involving John Hardwick.

It is asserted as a reasonable probability that John Hardwicke, 302-A, was a brother of Robin and Christopher Hardwicke, 301 and 303; that he lived near Richmond and probably died there. It may, however, have been his father who died there, and the John Sr., subject of this section, moved later westward, for we find that John Hardwick(e) who obtained the grant of land in Lunenburg County on Crab Orchard Creek in 1759 conveyed the land in 1763 to William Butler. Apparently the land at this time was in Bedford County. See Deed Records Bedford County, Volume 2, page 248. This same John Hardwick(e), designated herein as Senior, had one wife whose name was Elizabeth. There is some justification, largely based on tradition in the family, for thinking that he was married earlier to a member of the Venable family, but no proof of this can be found. It may be that his son was married twice, the first wife being a Venable, but here again no proof can be found. It is significant that the middle name "Venable" appears in names of a son and grandson of John Hardwicke Jr., No. 400-A, though he was married at one time to Dorcas Bush, and the deed records of Bedford County, Vol. 9, p. 466, show a deed dated 1795 by John Hardwick Jr. by his attorney, Robert Hardwick, concerning property of the John Bush Estate. In Volume 10, p. 110, is a deed by John Hardwick and wife Dorcas to property formerly a part of the Bush Estate. Date of deed not known, but probably 1795 or 1796. So it is certain that John Jr. was at that time married to Dorcas Bush; and, since he had moved to Mt. Sterling, Ky., about 1788, that may account for the power of attorney to Robert Hardwick.

302-B. Elizabeth Hardwicke. See 302-A, John Hardwicke.

303. Christopher Hardwicke. See discussion 302-A, John Hardwicke.

400-A. John Hardwicke Jr., son of John Hardwicke Sr. (and Elizabeth?), No. 302-A and B. Records in Bedford and Amherst Counties from around 1760 to about 1800 show many instruments in which the name John Hardwick(e) and John Hardwick(e) Jr. appear. It is likely that there were two John Hardwick(e)s, during this period, who were juniors. The records show that one John Hardwick Jr. married Dorcas Bush, who was the daughter of John Bush.

As stated heretofore, John and Elizabeth Hardwick(e) gave consent to the marriage of Betsie Hardwick to Philip Bush. Presumably, Philip Bush was a brother of Dorcas Bush who married John Hardwick(e) Jr. See discussion latter part 302-A for belief that John Jr. was probably first married to a Venable, later to Dorcas Bush. See No. 500 for further support of belief that John Sr. or John Jr. probably was married to a Miss Venable.

The memorandum quoted above in discussion of No. 302-A, John Hardwicke Sr., states that John Hardwicke Jr., No. 400-A, emigrated, about 1788 or 1789, from Bedford County, Va., to Mount Sterling, Ky., where he died at the age of 98. Investigation shows a rather large Hardwick(e) family near Mount Sterling in both Powell and Montgomery Counties, Kentucky. Montgomery County records show that John Hardwick about 1805 was Sheriff of the county, having made a bond appearing in Deed Book 3, page 378. Bond was also made in 1806, as shown by Deed Book 3, page 562-563. In Deed Book 5, page 138, there is a deed dated May 1, 1810, from John Hardwick covering 200 acres of land in Red River which is now a part of Powell County, with Stanton being the county seat. Apparently, there were many Hardwicks living in Powell County, for deeds between 1807 to 1812 are found, such as one from John Hardwick and wife Dorcas, and one from John Hardwick and wife Sallie. It is probable that the John Hardwick whose wife was Sallie is the son of John Hardwick whose wife was Dorcas. It may be accepted as fairly certain that the John Hardwick of Mount Sterling, whose wife was Dorcas, is the John Hardwick Jr. who married Dorcas Bush and who lived in Bedford County and who was mentioned in the memorandum quoted from, above. The deed records of Montgomery and Powell Counties, Kentucky, do not show the finale "e" as in common use.

Reasons exist for believing that John Hardwick(e) Jr. rendered service during the Revolutionary War, but proof is not certain. He was about 60 years of age in 1775, if he was the John Hardwicke who died in Mt. Sterling about 1812 at the age of 98.

John Jr., subject of this section, had 11 children: 7 sons and 4 daughters. This booklet gives little information about the descendants of any of these children except one. Assuming that each of these 7 sons had an average of 3 sons, and these families were scattered over the Blue Ridge area, and that some of the records are lost or carelessly kept, it is easy to understand the difficulty of obtaining exact data. The fondness for the names Robert, John, George, and William does not simplify the task of accurate identification.

500. John Hardwicke. This is the eldest son of John Hardwicke Jr., No. 400-A. No definite information about him is available, and, as stated immediately above, there are several John Hardwicke Jrs. who appear to be contemporaries. It may be that this is the John Hardwick(e) who is shown by Bedford County records to have married Joanna Hall on January 1, 1784. There is no way to tell whether the John Hardwick in Kentucky, whose wife was Sallie, was this particular John, or perhaps his son. No. 500 was born in 1765, so was about the right age to have been married to Joanna Hall in 1784.

There is some justification for believing that a Hardwicke family, originally of Buckingham County, Virginia, connects with the John Hardwicke under discussion. First, Buckingham County is on the James River and in the general area where the Hardwicke family, subject of this booklet, lived. The migration mentioned from Westmoreland and Henrico Counties or areas to the Blue Ridge district was naturally up the James River. Sallie Hardwicke, wife of Judge Thos. T. Holloway, deceased, of Dallas, Texas (a member of Buckingham County family), gives the information which follows, part being family tradition. A direct ancestor, Benjamin Hardwicke or John Benjamin Hardwicke, originally a Virginian, lived at one time in middle Tennessee and was a Baptist preacher. He died 183_?. This could have been John Hardwicke, No. 500, subject of this section, for he is shown to have been born 1765, and could easily have lived until 1839 or 1840. It is family tradition that a direct ancestor of (John) Benjamin Hardwicke married a Miss Venable, and this tends to confirm the belief that Benjamin Hardwicke is connected with the Hardwicke family which is the subject of this booklet, and that John Hardwicke (Sr. or Jr., Nos. 302-A or 400-A) was at one time married to a Venable. At any rate, the tradition of two Hardwicke families asserts the marriage of a Hardwick to a Miss Venable. Now to proceed with data concerning the Hardwicke family, called Buckingham Hardwickes, all of whom appear to have used the final "e," at least from about 1800.

One child of (John) Benjamin Hardwicke was Samuel P. Hardwicke (born about 1806 in Virginia, and died in 1861, in Buckingham County, Va.). He married Lucy Hudson Flood (b.1813, d.1862) in 1829, daughter of Capt. John Flood and granddaughter of Reverend Noah Flood, of Buckingham County, Virginia. Their children were: (1) John Benjamin Hardwicke (b.1830,d.1895) thought to have been named for his grandfather; married Martha Jane Dews-Holland (b.1830, d.1913) widow of Dr. Wm. Holland; (2) Wm. M. Hardwicke (b.1832, d.?) lived in Mississippi about 1875; (3) Henry Hardwicke (b.1834, d.1855 at Riceville, Va.); (4) Sarah E. Hardwicke (b.1835, d.?) married John Anderson; (5) Joel F. Hardwicke (b.1837, d.1895) married Mary Petty; (6) Samuel P. Hardwicke (b.1838, d.?); (7) James A. Hardwicke (b.1840, d. ?); (8) Mary Hortense Hardwicke (b.1841,d. ?) married Geo.Boyd; (9) Martha W. Hardwicke, (b.1844, d.1911) married a Singleton, and lived for a time in Lynchburg, Va.; (10) Thomas A. Hardwicke (b.1846, d.?) married Nell Carter, died in Virginia; (11) Lucy Hardwicke (b.1848, d.1869) lived in Virginia; (12) William Hardwicke (b.1850, d.1920), first married a Wombledrop, then a Burdette of West Virginia; (13) Henrietta Hardwicke (b.1852, d.1915), married a Fitzgerald in Lynchburg, Va.; (14) Harriette Hardwicke (b.1854, d.1900), married a Fitzgerald, brother of her sister's husband; (15) Richard E. Hardwicke (b.1855, d.1914), married Stella Upton of West Virginia.

John Benjamin Hardwicke, oldest child of Samuel P. Hardwicke and Lucy Hudson Flood, born 1830 in Buckingham County, Va., died 1895 in Corpus Christi, Texas, married Martha Jane Dews-Holland (b.1830, d.1913) widow of Dr. Wm. Holland, in 1855. Martha Jane Dews was born in Pittsylvania County, Va., and died in Dallas, Texas. Children of John Benjamin Hardwicke, a Baptist minister, and Martha Jane Dews-Holland were: (1) Andrew Fuller Hardwicke, born 1856 in Riceville, Va.; was editor of Atchison Globe, Atchison, Kansas at time of death, 1884; (2) Samuel P. Hardwicke Jr. born near Riceville, Va., 1858; married M. C. Deter, lived for many years in Abilene, Texas, where he died in 1916; was a lawyer of splendid reputation; (3) Anna J. Hardwicke, born in Petersburg, Va. 1861; married Percy V. Pennybacker, lived many years in Austin, Texas, where she died in 1938; was author of "History of Texas," a lecturer, President of the General Federation of Women's Clubs (1912-1916), and listed in Who's Who in America; (4) Leola Hardwicke, (b.1863, d.1864 in Petersburg, Va.); (5) John Benjamin Hardwicke Jr. born Fayetteville, N.C. in 1865, died in 1905 in Corpus Christi, Texas, where he was an editor and publisher of a newspaper; (6) Martha Dews Hardwicke (b. 1868, d.1869); (7) Sallie Hardwicke, born 1870 in Parkersburg, West Va., married Judge Thomas T. Holloway (d.1940, Dallas, Texas), and is living 4226 Bowser Street, Dallas, Texas; (8) A. Sinnette Hardwicke, born 1873, Charleston, West Va.; practiced law with his brother, S. P. Hardwicke, for many years in Abilene, Texas, then became a member of the legal staff of the Magnolia Petroleum Company, Dallas, Texas, shortly becoming General Attorney, retiring as such several years ago, but still lives in Dallas, connected with the Magnolia Petroleum Company.

The author of this booklet has known A. S. Hardwicke and Mrs. Pennybacker rather intimately for many years, and has known less intimately other members of the family, and can vouch for the justification for the splendid reputation which all of them have had for intelligence, integrity, and all good things. It is hoped that a common ancestor does in fact exist, as indicated herein, between the Buckingham County Hardwickes and the descendants of Joseph Venable Hardwicke.

501. George Hardwicke, son of John Hardwicke Jr., No. 400-A. No definite information about him. The name George Hardwick(e) at the time this George was living may be found in the Deed and Will Records of various counties in the Lynchburg area.

502-B. Sallie Hardwicke, daughter of John Hardwicke Jr., No. 400-A. No definite information, except that she was a Virginian, married Thomas Sale of Bedford County, Va., and that she gave to her nephew, John Venable Hardwicke, No. 603-A, information which he included in the memorandum which was quoted from above in connection with No. 302-A, John Hardwicke Sr.

502-A. Thomas Sale of Bedford County, Va. He was the husband of Sallie Hardwicke, 500-B, and some of his descendants are shown on the chart. Dr. John Sale, the father of Thomas Sale, was a private, and later captain and also surgeon, during the Revolutionary War. Because of that service, a doscendant, W. W. Hardwicke, No. 800-A, joined the Sons of the American Revolution, 1914, National No. 22987, Virginia No. 187.

503. Elizabeth Hardwicke, daughter of John Hardwicke

Jr., No. 400-A. No information.

504. Mitchell Hardwicke, son of John Hardwicke Jr., No. 400-A. No information.

505. Eleanor (Elinda) Hardwicke, daughter of John Hardwicke Jr., No. 400-A.

506. Samuel Hardwicke, son of John Hardwicke Jr., No. 400-A. No information.

507. Christopher Hardwicke, son of John Hardwicke Jr., No. 400-A. No data.

508-A. Joseph Venable Hardwicke, son of John Hardwicke Jr., No. 400-A, was born in Bedford County, Virginia, in 1783. He lived in and around Bedford County most of his life, but was living in Richmond at the time of his death, and he is buried there in Hollywood Cemetery. It is reasonably certain that he lived at one time in Nelson County, Virginia.

The records of the Circuit Court at Lynchburg show his marriage to Nancy Johnson, daughter of Charles Johnson, July 17, 1809.

From a genealogical standpoint, the marriage to Nancy Johnson probably constituted the most important fact in his life. Apparently, he consistently spelled his name with a final "e." As shown above in connection with discussion of 302-A, Rebecca Snead, No. 817-B, has in her possession an original memorandum made by Joseph Venable Hardwicke concerning his family, to which memorandum his son, John Venable Hardwicke, No. 603-A, added information obtained from his father and from his father's sister, Sallie Hardwicke Sale.

508-B. Nancy Ann(e) Johnson, daughter of Charles Johnson and Mary (Molly) Moorman, and wife of Joseph Venable Hardwicke, is a member of several illustrious families. The chart mentioned in the preliminary part of this booklet gives in considerable detail data concerning many of her direct ancestors, and gives reference to various books and other source material. Dr. Lorand V. Johnson, of the School of Medicine, Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio, has accumulated an enormous amount of data concerning the Johnson and allied families. He intends to publish this material in book form before very long. Various books and monographs about the Johnson and allied families, such as Clark, Moorman, and Terrell, have been published, and are well known to genealogists interested in Virginia families. The Johnson and allied families living in and around Lynchburg were mostly Quakers. Considerable information may be found in the books dealing with the Quakers in this area. The Johnson-Terrell line goes back to several Barons of Runnemede, and also to Edward I, King of England.

At least two of the ancestors of Nancy Ann Johnson, being Walter Chiles I and Walter Chiles II, were members of the House of Burgesses, and lived in or near Jamestown, Virginia, at an early date. Indeed, it appears that Walter Chiles I and his son came to Virginia prior to 1638. Walter Chiles II married Mary Page, daughter of Col. John Page, who was a man of considerable property and influence in the Jamestown area. The town of Williamsburg was located on a part of his property. On page 173 of the volume, "Williamsburg in Virginia," published in connection with the restoration of Williamsburg, it is stated that John Page in 1674 donated to Bruton Parish the land upon which Bruton Parish Church was located. This church was one of the first buildings restored in connection with the restoration of the entire town.

Nancy Ann(e) Johnson, wife of Joseph Venable Hardwicke, died in Lynchburg, Virginia, and was buried there in the Presbyterian Cemetery, Lot 9, Section (e) of the George W. Hardwicke lot.

509. Anne Hardwicke, daughter of John Hardwicke Jr. No. 400-A. No data.

510. Edmond Hardwicke, son of John Hardwicke Jr., No. 400-A. No data.

600-A. Rev. Nelson Sale, an Episcopal minister. No accurate data, but it is reasonably certain that he lived near Lynchburg.

600-B. Nancy Wharton, wife of Nelson Sale. No data.

601-A. John Sale of Bedford (Liberty) Va. No data.

601-B. _____ Alexander, wife of John Sale. No data.

602-A. Richard Alexander Sale. No data.

602-B. Martha Virginia Wharton, wife of R. A. Sale, No. 602-A. No data.

603-A. John Venable Hardwicke, eldest son of Joseph Venable Hardwicke and Nancy Anne Johnson, 508-A and B. He lived most of his life in Richmond (listed as Merchant and Tailor in directory of 1852), but part of the time in the Blue Ridge. His home in Richmond was on French Garden Hill, one of the seven hills on which Richmond was founded. It seems that he lived the later years of his life in Nelson County, Va., and died and was buried on his property there. One record gives the date of his death as July 5, 1885, another as August 5, 1885.

603-B. Margaret Walford, first wife of John Venable Hardwicke, 603-A. No accurate data now available. Her father, Edmond Walford came from London, England, in 1804. See obituary in "Virginia Conference Sentinal," April 1836. It is believed her full name was Sarah Ann Margaret Walford.

603-C. Elizabeth H. Christian, second wife of John Venable Hardwicke, 603-A. No accurate data except that she was a Virginian.

604-B. Mary E. Hardwicke, daughter of Joseph Venable Hardwicke and Nancy Anne Johnson, No. 508-A and B, first married Willis B. Hope, as shown by Marriage Records of Lynchburg, July 9, 1828. She later married a Mr. Dawn. No data. See 604-C.

604-A. Willis B. Hope. No accurate data. See 604-B and 604-C.

604-C. _____ Dawn. No accurate data. See 604-B. It is believed that members of both the Hope and Dawn families lived in Tennessee. Dr. Will Dawn of Knoxville is thought to be a member of the family.

605-A. William Sale Hardwicke, son of Joseph Venable Hardwicke and Nancy Anne Johnson, Nos. 508-A and B, is the grandfather of the author of this booklet. While it is certain that William S. Hardwicke was born in Virginia, probably in Bedford or Campbell County, he must have moved to northeastern Tennessee as a young man for he married Penelope M. Etter there in 1843 at the age of about 21. He lived three or four miles east of Mooresburg, Tennessee, on a farm, close to the Holston River. The author hereof visited that farm with his father in 1898, and later in 1906. There were very few members of the Hardwicke family living in the neighborhood at those times, although there were several members of the Etter family.

The author of this booklet has a small picture (daguerreotype) of William Sale Hardwicke. A large picture is in the possession of a brother in Sherman, Texas. Both show him to be a handsome man.

See information under 606-A, re duel with members of Button family in which a William Hardwicke participated.

The date of the birth of William Sale Hardwicke is given on the chart as March 19, 1822, which is the date shown on the memorandum made by Joseph Venable Hardwicke, referred to in 302-A. Information has been received from Mooresburg, Tennessee, where William Sale Hardwicke was buried in the Etter Cemetery, stating that on the grave stone the date of the birth of William Sale Hardwicke is shown to be May 13, 1819. If, therefore, he was born in 1819, instead of 1822, he must, of course, have married at the age of 24 and died at the age of 41. The statement on the chart that March 19, 1822, is the date shown on the grave stone is in error.

605-B. Penelope M. Etter, married William S. Hardwicke, No. 605-A. The Etter family lived in Mooresburg, Tennessee, and generally in northeastern Tennessee. They settled there prior to 1800, for there is a deed to George Etter dated 1797, relating to lots in Rogersville, Hawkins County. It appears that the Etter family was Dutch (or a German area of Holland) and emigrated from the Netherlands (Holland) to Pennyslvania and Virginia prior to the Revolutionary War, and then moved westward into Virginia and Tennessee, and later into Texas. They were people of real substance and character.

Penelope M. Etter was the daughter of James L. Etter and Minerva McCraw. James L. Etter, born Botetourt County, Va., Oct. 19, 1796, was the son of George Etter and Elizabeth Wax, who married in Fincastle, Va., 1790. Exact information as to the ancestors of George Etter is being prepared by Joe F. Etter of Sherman, Texas, so further information may be obtained from him. The parents of Elizabeth Wax, wife of George Etter, were Henry Wax and Margaret Geschwind. It is reasonably certain that the Wax and Geschwind families lived in Pennsylvania. A letter dated April 2, 1937, from the Archivist of the State Library and Museum of Pennsylvania states that Henry Wax (also spelled Wache and Wachs) was Sergeant of 1st Battalion (Penn. Archives, Fifth series, Vol. V, p. 139, 142, 144). On page 188 of same volume is published Muster roll of Capt. Heinrich Wacks Company from Alsace Township, Berks County, Jan. 5, 1784. This clearly was the same Henry Wax who married Margaret Geschwind. See papers re Minnie Moore Pharr, D. A. R. No. 287,448, ancestor Henry Wax.

The mother of Penelope M. Etter, subject of this section, was Minerva McCraw, born 1807, whose father was Gabriel McCraw, a surveyor who bought and sold much property in Hawkins County, Tennessee. The first name of Gabriel McCraw's wife was Susan. The last name is unknown. The McCraw family was an influential family living in northeastern Tennessee prior to and at the time of the Civil War.

The chart shows that Penelope M. Etter diod May 6, 1865. One available record gives the date March 6, 1865. At the present time it is not knownwhich is correct.

606-A. George W. Hardwicke, son of Joseph Venable Hardwicke and Nancy Anne Johnson, Nos. 508 A and B. This member of the family had an interesting career. He was born in Lynchburg, Campbell County, Virginia, and was associated in Lynchburg with Robt. Henry Glass, a relative of Senator Carter Glass, as one of the editors and owners of the Lynchburg Republican. It seems that this was the period from 1852-1866. Later, he was with the Richmond Examiner in Richmond, Virginia, and at the time of his death, at the age of 64, he had been for fifteen years with the Morning Star, Wilmington, N. C.

While editors of the Lynchburg Republican, George W. Hardwicke and William Hardwicke (not certain of his identity, but may have been brother of George W., 605-A; or son, 728-A; or nephew, 707-A) at a time when Glass was in Charleston on business, fought a duel with four members of the Button family who were owners of a rival newspaper. The trouble started from a statement or implication by the Buttons that subscribers of the Button paper, The Virginian, were receiving their papers by mail several days late, and that Glass, who was postmaster, may have been the cause of it. George W. Hardwicke denounced the Buttons, thus bringing on further accusations, all resulting in the duel which took place on June 23, 1860, between the four Buttons and the two Hardwickes. One of the Buttons was killed and another badly wounded. The other participants were not injured. Apparently the Buttons, Hardwickes, and Glass became friends again as a result of the Civil War. See "Carter Glass, a Biography," by Rixey Smith and Norman Beasley,1939, p. 5. There is an account of the duel, as well as other interesting information about the various newspapers in Lynchburg, in an article appearing in the Sesqui-Centennial Edition of The Daily Advance published October 12, 1936. The account of the duel is found on page 5-A of Section A of the edition mentioned. In the account, it is stated that George W. Hardwicke, at the time he joined the Republican was with the Richmond Examiner. From information obtained elsewhere, there is reason for thinking that he re-joined the Examiner after leaving the Republican. In the biography of Senator Carter Glass it is stated that two Hardwicke brothers were involved in the duel. Beyond question, George W. Hardwicke was one of the participants, and a William Hardwicke the other. If William was a brother of George, then it was William Sale Hardwicke, No. 605-A, grandfather of the author of this booklet; if a son, then it was William Sale Hardwicke, No. 728-A; if a nephew, then it was William Walford Hardwicke, No. 707-A. It is reasonably certain that the William Hardwicke who was associated with George W. Hardwicke and Robert Henry Glass, and who participated in the duel, was William Walford Hardwicke, nephew of George W. Hardwicke. As will be seen later, William Walford Hardwicke, No. 707-A, was a newspaper man.

It is certain that George W. Hardwicke was a man of unusual talent and honor. A clipping in possession of the author of this booklet, found in his father's old scrap book and of uncertain date, states that the entire family of George W. Hardwicke, consisting of a wife, two daughters and two sons, died during the last few years of his life. All were buried in Oakdale Cemetery, Wilmington, N. C.

606-B. Mary Charlotte Sale was the wife of George W. Hardwicke, 606-A. She was born in Bedford County, Va., the daughter of Richard Alexander Sale and Martha Virginia Wharton. See 703-B on chart.

607-A. Joseph L. Hardwicke, son of Jos. V. Hardwicke and Nancy Anne Johnson, Nos. 508 A and B. There are some records which indicate that this son was sometimes known as T. H. No data.

607-B. _____ Bailey, wife of No. 607-A. No data.

700. John Sale, son of Richard A. Sale and Martha Virginia Wharton, Nos. 602 A and B. No data.

701. Richard Dabney Sale, also son of Nos. 602 A and B. No data.

702. William Wharton Sale, also son of Nos. 602 A and B. No data.

703-B. Mary Sale, daughter of Nos. 602 A and B, was wife of George W. Hardwicke. See 606-A.

703-A. George W. Hardwicke, son of Jos. V. Hardwicke and Nancy Anne Johnson, Nos. 508 A and B, husband of Mary Sale. See information given under 606-A.

704-B. Sally Sale, married William Walford Hardwicke, 707-A. See 707-B.

705-A and 706-A. Thought to be children of R. A. Sale. Names unknown.

707-A. William Walford Hardwicke, son of John Venable Hardwicke and Margaret Walford, Nos. 603 A and B, was born in Richmond, Virginia. His marriage to Sally Sale was in Richmond in the Saint John's Episcopal Church, December 18, 1867. He had been a captain in the Confederate Army. According to information received from Richmond, he moved to Lynchburg shortly after his marriage, and he was for a time connected with the Literary Messenger, better known through its connection with Edgar Allen Poe. It is almost certain that he was the William Hardwicke who, with George W. Hardwicke, No. 606-A, was involved in the duel with the Buttons, referred to under 606-A. He died in Lynchburg in 1877 and is buried there in the Presbyterian Cemetery.

707-B. Sally (Sallie) Sale, daughter of Richard A. Sale and Martha Virginia Wharton, Nos. 602 A and B, was the wife of William Walford Hardwicke, and is also shown on the chart as 704-B. It will be observed that George W. Hardwicke, 606-A, and his nephew, William Walford Hardwicke, 707-A, married sisters, Mary and Sally (Sallie) Sale, 703-B and 704-B. Sally was born in Bedford County, Virginia, died in Lynchburg on February 18, 1875, and was buried in the Presbyterian Cemetery in Lynchburg. Further information as to the Sale family, which is well known and widely connected in Virginia, can be obtained from Mrs. Lula Reed, Brownsville, Texas, or Mrs. Clark Leftwich, care of Richard A. Leftwich, Roanoke, Virginia.

708-A. Joseph Edward Hardwicke, Nos. 603 A and B, son of John Venable Hardwicke and Margaret Walford, Nos. 603 A and B, died in infancy.

709. Ann Rebecca Hardwicke, daughter of John Venable Hardwicke and Margaret Walford, Nos. 603 A and B, lived in Richmond, Virginia, most of her life. She never married. She did a great deal of church and philanthropic work, and virtually took care of the children of her uncle, T. L. D. Walford. All who knew her well vouch for the justness of her high reputation as a "great lady," for her intelligence, and for her character and energy. She was a storehouse of information concerning the Hardwicke, the Walford, and related families, but unfortunately did not make written memoranda of this information.

710-A. John Thompson Hardwicke, son of John Venable Hardwicke and Margaret Walford, Nos. 603 A and B, born in Virginia where he lived for many years. He moved to New York where he was editor of a newspaper, and later was in the publishing business, associated with Wm. R. Allegre, also from Virginia. He died in 1886 in New York City and was buried in Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn.

710-B. Katherine Martha Leonard, wife of John T. Hardwicke, No. 710-A, was born in Augusta, Maine, daughter of John T. Leonard and Mary Walker. The Leonard family was associated with Holden, Leonard & Company, one of the oldest woolen goods houses in the country. A grandmother of Katherine Leonard was Ann Shirley of Scotland who was a sponsor of the Salvation Army in its early days in New York. Katherine Leonard Hardwicke died in New York at the age of 86. She was living with her daughter, 804-B, at the time.

711-B. Mollie (Mary) Hardwicke, daughter of John Venable Hardwicke and Margaret Walford, 603 A and B. Mollie and her husband, Wm. J. Mays, lived, at least a good part of their lives, in Richmond. As shown on the chart, they had eight children and several of these children were even more prolific. Most of them still live in Virginia, in Richmond, although unfortunately details have not been obtained concerning members of the family. Enough is known to say that many of them are people of substance.

711-A. William J. Mays, husband of Mollie Hardwicke. See 711-B, immediately above.

712-A. Thomas Tyree Hardwicke, son of John Venable Hardwicke and Margaret Walford, 603 A and B. No accurate information except that he lived in Richmond, Virginia, at least most of his life, being a tobacco-factory manager.

712-B. Martha Washington Bradley, wife of Thomas T. Hardwicke, No. 712-A. No accurate data except she was born in Charles City County, Virginia, and lived in Richmond. See 969-B.

713. James Haskins Hardwicke, son of John Venable Hardwicke and Margaret Walford, 603 A and B, died in infancy.

714-A. Charles Wood Hardwicke, son of John Venable Hardwicke and Margaret Walford, 603 A & B, was born in Richmond and lived for a long time on East Grace Street. He was a member of the firm of Charles W. Hardwicke & Company, manufacturers of flooring, ceiling, etc. at 18th and Cary Streets, Richmond. He began work as an office boy, and was connected with the business at the same location for 52 years, being president in 1923 when he sold out. He later was president of Collier & Hardwicke, Inc., a real estate and insurance business with his son-in-law, C. H. Collier. He was an active church worker; was chairman of the executive committee of the Randolph-Macon System of Schools and Colleges; was treasurer of the Trinity Methodist Church, The Virginia Conference Orphanage, and the Fireman's Mutual Benefit. Charles Wood Hardwicke stood very high in Richmond, and was well known in business and educational circles.

714-B. Alice Davenport Stratton, wife of Charles Wood Hardwicke, 714-A, born in Richmond. She is still living, being with her daughter, Louise Collier, in Everglades, Florida; or her daughter, Alice Frischkorn, in Richmond.

715. George Hope Hardwicke, son of John Venable Hardwicke and Margaret Walford, 603 A and B. No accurate data. The chart, giving information as to dates of births and deaths, shows that he died at the age of 45. This may be an error, for elsewhere information has been obtained that he died as a young man.

716-B. Clara Pinckney Hardwicke, daughter of John Venable Hardwicke and Elizabeth H. Christian, 603 A and C, was born in Richmond, married Stephen Christian in Nelson County. The author of this booklet talked to Mrs. Christian about two years ago. She was living with her daughter, Bessie Christian, in Rosslyn, Virginia, just outside of Washington, D. C. Mrs. Christian, at the age of 73, was a very intelligent, charming woman. She died March 14, 1939, and was buried beside her husband in Columbia Gardens, Arlington, Va.

716-A. Stephen Christian, husband of Clara P. Hardwicke, No. 716-B. No accurate data now available.

717. John Hope, son of Mary Hardwicke and Willis B. Hope, 604 B and A. No accurate data.

718. Joseph Hope, son of Mary Hardwicke and Willis B. Hope, 604 B and A. No accurate data.

719-B. Mary Ann Hardwicke, wife of John Baxter Omohundro, and daughter of William Sale Hardwicke and Penelope M. Etter, 605 A and B. Mary Ann was born in Tennessee. It is reasonably certain that she married there, later moving to Texas. The family lived for many years in Whitesboro, Grayson County, Texas. The author of this booklet lived, until he was 22, in Sherman, Texas, about 20 miles east of Whitesboro, and knew the Omohundros very well, often visiting in the home. As shown by the chart, there were fourteen children born to Mary Ann Hardwicke and John B. Omohundro. Most of them lived to maturity. Mary Ann Hardwicke died in Lynch Station, Va., and was buried there in Mount Hermon Cemetery. She doubtless was visiting her sister, Lucy, No. 725-B, at the time.

719-A. John Baxter Omohundro, born Amherst County, Va., husband of Mary Ann Hardwicke, No. 719-B, was a resident of Whitesboro, Texas, for many years; died and was buried there. He was a highly respected merchant, well known and liked throughout the community. The Omohundro family is an old Virginia family. Several years ago M. H. Omohundro, a lawyer, at the time living in Goochland, Virginia, and previously with offices in the Merchants National Bank Building, 1103 East Main Street, Richmond, Virginia, was preparing to publish a book concerning the Omohundro family, starting with Richard Omohundro who settled in Westmoreland County, Virginia, prior to 1668. If the book has been published, no notice of it has been received.

720. Harriet Hardwicke, daughter of William Sale Hardwicke and Penelope M. Etter, 605 A and B, died unmarried at the age of 31.

721. James J. Hardwicke, son of William Sale Hardwicke and Penelope M. Etter, 605 A and B. No accurate data, except that he lived for many years in northeastern Tennessee.

722-A. John McCraw Hardwicke, son of William S. Hardwicke and Penelope M. Etter, 605 A and B, lived for many years in northeastern Tennessee, particularly around Mooresburg. The author of this booklet, when he visited Mooresburg in 1898, and later in 1906, was many times at the old home place of John McCraw Hardwicke, beautifully situated on the banks of the Holston River three or four miles east of Mooresburg, Tennessee, and just below Galbreath Springs, a resort on the mountain side. John McCraw Hardwicke died prior to 1898. His widow, Mary McCarty Hardwicke, was living on the place. She was extremely intelligent, and an interesting woman who apparently very efficiently managed the farm or plantation.

722-B. Mary McCarty, wife of John McCraw Hardwicke. See 722-A just above.

723. Laura Hardwicke, daughter of William S. Hardwicke and Penelope M. Etter, 605 A and B. No accurate data. It is believed that she died when very young.

724-A. George Etter Hardwicke, son of William Sale Hardwicke and Penelope M. Etter, 605 A and B. George Etter Hardwicke, the father of the author of this manuscript, was born near Mooresburg, Tennessee, was left an orphan at the age of ten, and was reared by two maiden aunts, Maggie Etter and Sue Etter of Mooresburg, Tennessee. Shortly after the Civil War, when he was a boy, he came to Sherman, Texas, where his uncle, Gabriel Etter, was living. No doubt his brother-in-law, John Baxter Omohundro, 719-A, came to Texas about the same time, settling in Whitesboro, 18 miles west of Sherman. The Civil War, together with the death of the parents of George E. Hardwicke when he was quite young, prevented any formal education. However, as a rather young man, he showed energy and business ability, becoming a member of the firm of Roberts, Hardwicke & Taylor, wholesale hardware, Sherman, Texas. Later, he and his cousin, Joe F. Etter, son of Gabriel Etter, organized Hardwicke & Etter (name later changed to Hardwicke-Etter Company) dealers in hardware and mill supplies at wholesale. About 1920, the company began to manufacture belting, gin and mill supplies, and later complete cotton gins. The company is still in business in Sherman, Texas, doing a large wholesale business and also a large business manufacturing belting, cotton gins, cotton-gin equipment and accessories. An historical sketch of the Hardwicke-Etter Company appears in The Texas Weekly, July 27, 1940, page 4. George Etter Hardwicke was president of the company until his death in 1923. He was a man of splendid character and ability, and of the very highest reputation. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church. He died and was buried in Sherman in 1923.

724-B. Martha (Mattie) Cunningham, wife of George Etter Hardwicke, 724-A, was born on Summerville Place, Liberty Hill, S. C., a daughter of Robert James Cunningham and Annette Susanah Stinson. Arthur Cunningham, the great grandfather of Martha Cunningham, came to South Carolina from Ireland about the time of the Revolutionary War, probably shortly afterwards. Fire destroyed the records and papers giving information about Arthur Cunningham and his family in Ireland. He lived near Liberty Hill, S. C., where he died in 1828 at the age of about 103. The Cunningham family was a prominent and wealthy family in South Carolina, but lost practically everything during the Civil War.

Annette Susanah Stinson, wife of Robert James Cunningham, and mother of Martha Cunningham, subject of this section, was the daughter of William Baxter Stinson and Martha George. These families, together with the Fletchers, Browns, Andersons, Summervilles, Johnsons, Curetons, McWillies, etc. were all neighbors and relatives living in the Camden and Liberty Hill area, or Kershaw District of South Carolina. Shortly after the Civil War, Robert James Cunningham and his family moved to Canton, Mississippi, where they stayed for several years. There was a large group of ex-South Carolinians in and around Canton, particularly because, about 1845, William McWillie, later Governor of Mississippi, had moved to Mississippi from South Carolina, heading a group of families from the Liberty Hill or Kershaw District. McWillie founded Kirkwood, Mississippi, about 1845. Governor McWillie's first wife, who died in 1827, was Nancy Louise Cunningham, a cousin of Robert James Cunningham. There were many relatives of Robert James Cunningham and his wife in the settlement at Kirkwood and near Canton, Mississippi.

Robert James Cunningham, father of Martha Cunningham, with his family, moved from Mississippi to Sherman, Grayson County, Texas, about 1872. Robert James Cunningham and his wife died and were buried in Sherman. Cunningham, a college graduate (college not now known), was a Lieutenant in Company "D" under Captain J. L. Jones of Liberty Hill, and was with Colonel Patrick Henry Nelson's Battalion in the charge on the Federal breastworks before Petersburg, July 24, 1864. Colonel Nelson was killed in the battle. See Charleston Sunday News, August 8, 1897, page 10, an article by William M. Thomas. Robert James Cunningham was injured during the battle of Fort Harrison. His brother, Captain Joseph P. Cunningham, was killed in the battle of Gettysburg. Information about the Cunningham family may be had in "Genealogy of the McWillie and Cunningham Families," compiled by Robert Brown Johnson, published in Columbia, South Carolina, in 1914. Most of the copies were destroyed when the publishing house burned. Several members of the family arranged for a reprint in 1938; and copies can be obtained from Henrietta McWillie Johnson, or Mrs. Dan M. Jones, both of Camden, South Carolina. The author of this booklet also has a few copies.

It is probable that the emigrant ancestor, Arthur Cunningham, came to South Carolina after the Revolutionary War, for, from what is known about his energy and viewpoints, he certainly would have been in the war had the opportunity existed. The records show an Arthur Cunningham who did participate in the Revolutionary War, but it is almost certain that he was not the person under discussion. He may have been a cousin with the same name.

Martha Cunningham, great granddaughter of Arthur Cunningham, and subject of this section, wife of George Etter Hardwicke, lived in Sherman, Texas, from about 1872 to the time of her death in 1932. Although without a college degree, she was well educated and highly intelligent; was a member of the Presbyterian Church, and quietly did much charitable work. A brother, Robert Roy Cunningham, of Hanford, California, is a Senator in the California Assembly.

725-B. Lucy Finley Hardwicke was a daughter of William Sale Hardwicke and Penelope M. Etter, 605 A and B. Lucy Hardwicke and her husband, John Lynch Douglas, lived in Lynch Station, Virginia, close to Lynchburg. She was born near Mooresburg, Tennessee. She taught school in Virginia before her marriage, probably in Amherst County. She was buried in Mount Hermon Cemetery, Lynch Station, Virginia.

725-A. John Lynch Douglas, husband of Lucy Hardwicke, 725-B. It is reasonably certain that he was a member of the large Lynch family who lived in and around Campbell and Bedford Counties, Virginia. One member of the family founded Lynchburg. John L. Douglas lived for many years at Lynch Station, where he died, being buried in Mount Hermon Cemetery.

726-B. Sallie Miller Hardwicke, daughter of William Sale Hardwicke and Penelope M. Etter, 605 A and B, born Morresburg, Tennessee. Sallie married M. J. Shotwell. They lived for many years in Knoxville, Tennessee. Sallie Hardwicke Shotwell was buried in Knoxville.

726-A. M. J. Shotwell was the husband of Sallie Hardwicke, No. 726-B. Shotwell was the son of Dr. Nathan Shotwell, and a descendant of the Shotwells who with other dissenters had to leave England. It is told that they were banished, chained, and put on an unseaworthy vessel with the hope that the boat would go down. However, they were able to free themselves and make enough repairs to reach the United States. They landed in New Jersey at a place which was called at one time Shotwell's Landing. The name was later changed to Perth Amboy. The Shotwell family history has been published but no accurate reference is now available. It has been stated that the mother of M. J. Shotwell was a descendant of Lord John Gage, Constable of the Tower of London during the time of Elizabeth.

727. George Winton Hardwicke, son of George W. Hardwicke and Mary Charlotte Sale, 606 A and B, was born in Lynchburg, Va., and died unmarried at Wilmington, North Carolina, where he was buried.

728-A. William S. Hardwicke, son of George W. Hardwicke and Mary Charlotte Sale, 606 A and B, probably born in Lynchburg, Va. He lived at one time in Wilmington, N. C., probably died and was buried there.

728-B. Johnnie Gause was the wife of William S. Hardwicke, 728-A. After the death of William S. Hardwicke, she married Preston Cummings of Wilmington, who died several years ago. Mrs. Cummings (Johnnie Gause Hardwicke) about January 1, 1934, was living at 315 South Second Street, Wilmington, North Carolina. The Hardwicke and Gause families were people of prominence in Wilmington.

729-B. Mary Hardwicke, daughter of George W. Hardwicke and Mary Charlotte Sale, 606 A and B, born in Bedford County, Va., was the wife of Lieutenant J. R. Rhodes of the Navy. She died and was buried in Wilmington, North Carolina.

800-A. Walford Wharton Hardwicke, son of William Walford Hardwicke and Sallie Sale, 707 A and B, was born in Lynchburg, Va. He was left an orphan when a small boy and was reared by relatives on both sides of the family. He lived a good part of the time in the home of his uncle, Charles Wood Hardwicke, 714-A, in Richmond. He went to work in the office of T. L. Alfriend at the age of 13, where he worked until after his marriage. He established an insurance business for himself, and later became connected with Chas. P. Walford Jr., establishing in Richmond the general agency of W. W. Hardwicke, Walford & Company. W. W. Hardwicke was a man of ability and standing in Richmond. He is buried in the Hollywood Cemetery.

800-B. Elizabeth Jackson, wife of Walford Wharton Hardwicke, No. 800-A, was born in Yorkshire, England, the daughter of John Foster Jackson and Hannah Jane Lockwood. Elizabeth Jackson came to the United States about 1887 and lived in Goochland County, Virginia, at a place called "Woodlawn," bought by her father before she met or even knew of W. W. Hardwicke, who became her husband. She told the author of this booklet that "Woodlawn" was once the home place of a Hardwicke family; that there was on the place a cemetery known as the Hardwicke burying ground. She said she remembered well the cemetery but the inscriptions were so worn that she could not read them very well and could not remember anything accurately about them. Further accurate information has not been obtained about "Woodlawn." The records of Henrico County, including large areas now in Goochland County, were destroyed during the Civil War, and nothing of interest has been obtained from the existing records concerning "Woodlawn." John Foster Jackson, father of Elizabeth Jackson was editor of the Southern Planter for many years.

Elizabeth Jackson Hardwicke is still living in Richmond, Virginia.

813-B. Aline Barbour, wife of William Mays, 813-A. No data.

814-B. Bessie Mays, daughter of Mollie Hardwicke and William J. Mays, 711 B and A, married Preston Taylor, probably still living in Charlottesville, Virginia.

814-A. Preston Taylor, husband of Bessie Mays, 814-B. No data.

815-A. John Hillard Hardwicke, son of Thomas T. Hardwicke and Martha Bradley, 712 A & B. He is married and living in Richmond, Virginia, being with the Richmond Hotel.

815-B. Margaret Roller, wife of John H. Hardwicke, 815-A. Lived in Harrisonburg, Va., at time of marriage.

816. William James Hardwicke, son of Thomas T. Hardwicke and Martha Bradley, 712 A and B. It is believed that he is unmarried and is living in Los Angeles, California.

817-B. Rebecca Walford Hardwicke, daughter of Thomas T. Hardwicke and Martha Bradley, 712 A and B, wife of Edwin Judson Snead of Fork Union, Va., was born in Richmond, Va. The author of this booklet met Rebecca while he was a student at the Virginia Military Institute in 1906, and she was a student at Randolph-Macon Woman's College in Lynchburg. She has become interested in the genealogy of the Hardwicke and allied families, and has assisted in accumulating some of the data which are given in this booklet and on the chart of the Hardwicke family. She, together with her cousin, Caroline Sale Hardwicke, 858-B (wife of Richard A. Nelson), have obtained much information concerning the Johnson family inasmuch as Nancy Anne Johnson was the wife of Joseph Venable Hardwicke, 508 A and B. Rebecca Hardwicke Snead was one of the charter members of the D. A. R. Chapter established in Fork Union, Virginia, in 1936. Her National D. A. R. number is 298012, and membership was based on ancestor Charles Johnson or Christopher Johnson, or both. The records of Louisa County, Virginia, Order Book 4, 1772-1782, page 178, show that Christopher Johnson was an Ensign in the Militia. There are also records showing that Charles Johnson rendered service to the country during the Revolutionary War period. The application of Rebecca Hardwicke Snead also referred to D. A. R. Records No. 72057 and 296049 with respect to accepted service of Charles or Christopher Johnson, or both. For convenience, it is here stated that the author of this booklet joined the Sons of the American Revolution, Fort Worth Chapter, based upon War records of Charles and Christopher Johnson, Texas No. 499, National No. 56552.

817-A. Edwin Judson Snead, husband of Rebecca Walford Hardwicke, 807-B, is an instructor at the Fork Union Military Academy, Fork Union, Virginia. Attended University of Richmond and University of Virginia, receiving A. B. Degree (from the latter?).

818-B. Margaret B. Hardwicke, daughter of Charles Wood Hardwicke and Alice D. Stratton, 714 A and B, wife of Hawes Coleman, was born in Richmond, Virginia, and has lived there all her life.

819-B. Alice Hardwicke, daughter of Charles Wood Hardwicke and Alice D. Stratton, 714 A and B, married Hunter B. Frischkorn in Richmond, Va. She has lived in Richmond all her life, and has taken great interest in the accumulation of data concerning the Hardwicke and allied families. She has an oil painting of her grandfather, John Venable Hardwicke, 603-A. Alice Hardwicke Frischkorn is a woman of strong character and unlimited energy. She has always been generous with both time and money in an effort to be of assistance to others.

The Frischkorn family lived very near to the Presbyterian Seminary in Richmond. Alice Hardwicke Frischkorn, according to her humor at the time, either cusses or gives halleluyahs because of the fact mentioned, resulting, as it did, in the marriage of each of her four daughters to Presbyterian ministers. In the last ten years her unbounded energy and interest in people have been used in traveling around the country visiting her daughters and relatives. One daughter lives in Brazil, and has become accustomed to finding her mother at the door, after a long airplane flight, probably first to Texas, then to Panama, and finally to Brazil. Mrs. Frischkorn is now living at 1214 Confederate Street, Richmond, Virginia. She is one of the most interesting, active, and outstanding members of the Hardwicke family.

819-A. Hunter B. Frischkorn, husband of Alice

Hardwicke, 819-B, was a very successful business man of Richmond, Virginia, and a splendid man. At the time of his death he was president of Hunter B. Frischkorn & Co., manufacturing railroad and mill supplies, located in Richmond. Died and was buried in Richmond.

820-B. Louise Hardwicke, daughter of Charles W. Hardwicke and Alice D. Stratton, 714 A and B, and wife of Charles Henry Collier was born and lived in Richmond for many years. She attended Richmond Female Seminary, and Randolph-Macon Woman's College; moved to Everglades, Florida, in 1926, where she is now living with her husband and children. Louise visited her cousins in Sherman, Texas, about 1908, being rated as a distinguished and interesting guest. Louise and her cousin, Rebecca, No. 817-B, were in Randolph-Macon at the same time, and the author of this booklet visited them there while he was a student at V.M.I.

820-A. Charles Henry Collier, husband of Louise Hardwicke, 820-B. Collier's ancestors came from England in 1636, settling in Virginia. His father was a Captain in the Confederate Navy, moving to Memphis, Tennessee, after the Civil War. His mother is a niece of Margaret Walford, 603-B, wife of John Venable Hardwicke. Collier married Louise Hardwicke in 1914 and they lived in Memphis for two years, then moved to Richmond where he was engaged in the real estate loan business until 1926, being vice president of Collier and Hardwicke. He moved to Everglades, Florida, in 1926, and is now living there. Several years ago he was an officer of Collier and Long, Inc., insurance brokers.

836. Blanche Omohundro, daughter of Mary Hardwicke and John B. Omohundro, 719 B and A. No data.

837. Howard Watts Omohundro, son of Mary Hardwicke and John B. Omohundro, 719 B and A. No data.

838. Annie Omohundro, daughter of Mary Hardwicke and John B. Omohundro, 719 B and A. No data.

839. Minnie Omohundro, daughter of Mary Hardwicke and John B. Omohundro, 719 B and A. No data.

840. Barnard Omohundro, son of Mary Hardwicke and John B. Omohundro, 719 B and A. No data.

841-A. Clifford Gribble Hardwicke, son of George E. Hardwicke and Martha Cunningham, 724 A and B, was born in Sherman, Texas, and still lives there. Was graduated as an electrical engineer from Virginia Military Institute in 1904, worked with the General Electric Company at Schenectady, New York, for several years, and then returned to Sherman, Texas, where he has since lived. For many years he has been an officer of the Hardwicke-Etter Company, Sherman, Texas.

841-B. Rita Love Case, wife of Clifford G. Hardwicke, 841-A, is a member of the Martha Jefferson Randolph Chapter of the Daughters of American Revolution on ancestor Captain Elisha Barton, National No. 255881; is also descendant of Gov. Quincy of Massachusetts and of John Hart, signer of Declaration of Independence. Rita Case is daughter of Prof. George Elmer Case (born in New Jersey) and Lota Williams (born in Texas) whose parents were from Kentucky.

842-A. Robert E. Hardwicke, son of George E. Hardwicke and Martha Cunningham, 724 A and B, is the author of this booklet. Born in Sherman, Texas, attended Virginia Military Institute, 1906-1907, entered the University of Texas 1907, obtaining an LL.B degree in 1911. Was in the general practice of law 1911-1918 in Beaumont, Texas; became a member of the Legal Department of the Gulf Oil Corporation and its subsidiaries in 1918, and continued as such for about twelve years, being located in Texas offices (Houston, Ft. Worth, and Wichita Falls, 1918-1923) and in Caracas, Venezuela, 1923-1929. Resigned in 1929, and entered the general practice of law in Fort Worth, Texas, and has lived there ever since. Married Hallie Read Greer, 842-B, in 1916; they were divorced May 21, 1929, in Houston, Texas, and were remarried in Ft. Worth, Texas, six months later, Dec. 23, 1929.

Robert E. Hardwicke is the author of two books, "Innocent Purchaser of Oil and Gas Lease ," (Dallas, 1921) and "Petroleum and Natural Gas Bibliography," the latter published by Univ. of Texas, Austin, 1937; and is also the author of legal articles appearing in The Texas Law Review, The Michigan Law Review, and other publications. See "Texian Who's Who," and "Who's Who in Law" (1937). Is Chairman of the Section of Mineral Law, American Bar Association, 1939-1940; and member of Editorial Board of Texas Law Review. Rejected for Officers' Training Camp, and also for draft, 1917-1918, being unable to pass the physicial examination; also given deferred classification in draft.

Now a member of the law firm of Hardwicke & Cheek, lawyers, 1703 Fair Building, Fort Worth, Texas.

Obviously, the author of this booklet has greater information about himself and immediate family than about others. Many members of the family could, and have been urged to furnish, data of a similar nature about themselves or others, but they fail to respond, as a rule. Request is here made that such data be submitted so that it may be proserved in one place and may be used if this booklet should ever be revised or brought up to date.

842-B. Hallie Read Greer, daughter of D. Edward Greer and Hallie Oden Read, and wife of Robert E. Hardwicke, 842-A, was born in Dallas, Texas, and moved to Beaumont, Texas, when a young girl. Attended Barnard College, Columbia University, 1913-14, University of Texas in 1914-16; author of prize-winning article, "A Pathetic Figure," (Forum, August 1931), and "Marriage and the Weaker Vessel," (Junior League Magazine, May 1934); has written book reviews for the Fort Worth Star Telegram for several years. Was one of organizers and first President of The Maternal Health Center of Fort Worth, a charitable birth-control clinic which has done splendid work. She is First Vice-President of the Birth-Control League of Texas. Her mother was a member of the Read family of Virginia (See "The Reads and their Relatives" published by Johnson and Hardin Press, Cincinnati, 1930); has D. A. R. papers based on Isaac Read and perhaps others, National No. 122,083. Hallie Read Hardwicke's National No. is 135,631.

D. Edward Greer, father of Hallie Read Greer, was an outstanding lawyer, and was for many years General Attorney for the Gulf Oil Corporation, with offices in Houston, Texas. He was born in DeSoto County, Mississippi, April 25, 1856. His father, James Madison Greer, of Tennessee and Mississippi (Holley Springs, Mississippi, and area) married Mary Autry, daughter of Micajah Autry and Martha Wyche (Wilkinson). Micajah Autry was born 1794 or 1795 in Sampson County, North Carolina, son of Theophilus Autry, who was in the War of 1812. Micajah Autry moved from North Carolina to Tennessee about 1823, being admitted to the Bar in Nashville about 1828. He lived in Havesboro, Tennessee, for a time, moving to Jackson in the western district where he practiced law until the fall of 1835, when he started to Texas to investigate the country and to see about establishing a home there. The records are sufficient to justify the statement that David Crockett of Tennessee persuaded Micajah Autry to go to Texas. When Autry got to Texas he joined the Texas Army of Independence, and was among the small group (including Crockett, Fannin, Bowie, and Travis) who fought against overwhelming odds at San Antonio, and where all were killed in the famous Battle of the Alamo in 1836. Considerable data have been published about Micajah Autry and The Battle of the Alamo.

See article by Adele D. Looscan in 14 Texas Historical Quarterly 315.

Hallie Oden Read, wife of D. Edward Greer, and mother of Hallie Read Greer, was born in 1860 in Charleston, W. CHART OF HARDWICKE FAMILY

BY

C.G. HARDWICKE (No. 841-A)
SHERMAN, TEXAS AND
R.E. HARDWICKE (No. 842-A)
FORT WORTH, TEXAS
1703 FAIR BUILDING

FROM DATA AVAILABLE JANUARY 1, 1933

1. Nos. 112 and 113 - Terrell (Tyrrell) line goes back to several Barons of Runnemede, and to Edward I of England and wife, Eleanor of Castile. Data too long to put on this chart.

2. No. 240 - Came to Virginia prior to 1638. In house of Burgesses several years, and member of Council in 1651.

3. No. 120 - Burgess, James City, 1658-1663. Lived in the Kemp House, Jamestown Island, probably first brick house in Colonies

4. No. 242 - Donated land in Williamsburg, Va. on which Bruton Parish Church was built and now restored. See "Williamsburg in Va." p. 173

5. No. 35. - Believed to be descendant of Lord Ashley-Cooper, of the Carolina Grant.

6. Lorand V. Johnson, M.D., School of Medicine, Western Reserve Univ. Cleveland, Ohio, has much data on the Johnson, Terrell, Moorman and allied families. See also "James Clark; Mansfield-Christopher Clark Families." by Virginia McNaught, put into book form by Helen McNaught Geary, 339 Fifteenth Street, Oakland, California.

7. The immediate ancestors of Anne Johnson Hardwicke, No. 1 this chart, were Quakers living in or near Campbell County, Va. See Bell's "Our Quaker Friends of Ye Olden Times" and other books re Lynchburg and the Quakers as, "Lynchburg Pioneer Quakers and Their Meeting House."

8. Robert Etter Hardwicke joined S.A.R., National No. 56562, on ancestors Charles Johnson and Christopher Johnson, Nos. 264; and the Jamestowne Society on the Chiles and Page ancestors, Nos. 60, 120, 240 and 242.

9. Dates given in books and data frequently conflicting. No way to reconcile conflicts.
